Situated in the foothills of Mount Gibraltar, Bowral has a distinct lifestyle that celebrates the area's natural beauty, culinary offerings and creative flare. Once a Southern Highlands retreat for Sydney's wealthy gentry, Bowral retains an allure that locals and Sydneysiders find hard to resist.

Beautiful year round, Bowral's European-style gardens and rural landscape have long captured the imagination of creatives and literary figures. The changing season's reveal Bowral's hidden gems. The Autumn Garden Festival showcases the warm colours of falling leaves. Winter brings light snowfalls and open gardens, whilst spring is the time for vibrant colours at the Tulip Festival. Come summer, cricket fans look to the Sir Donald Bradman Oval, home of the Australian sporting icon.

Running through the region's largest town is Bong Bong Street. Bong Bong and surrounding streets are lined with gourmet restaurants, boutique shopping, antique dealers, art galleries, bookstores and an independent cinema. Gastro pubs are a social hub, as are the profusion of cafés that lure people in with their home-style comforts.

Away from the village area, beautiful cottages and grand estate homes which echo a bygone era are still popular with Sydney's elite – some have been repurposed into beautiful weekend getaways and spa retreats. Drive out towards the historic village of Berrima or down towards Moss Vale and you will pass verdant golf courses and cool climate vineyards and cellar doors.

Boasting all the elements of an elegant, rural lifestyle, Bowral remains the place to indulge in fine country living.
